WASHINGTON — General Douglas MacArthur, soon to retire as Chief of Staff, has received an offer to train and organize the new Philippine Army.

The offer comes from Manuel Quezon, who will run for President of the Philippines under the new constitution and is almost certain to be elected.

The constitution also provides for the organization of a Philippine army along American lines.

General MacArthur commanded American forces in the Philippines just before he became Chief of Staff, and is expected to accept the offer. He would have to retire from the U. S. Army in order to do so.

Tooter

When it comes to tooting his own horn, Representative Clare G. Fenerty is in a class by himself.

When a delegation of congressmen called on the President the other day to discuss the Mexican religious dispute, Fenerty was in the group. By no stretch of the imagination was he a leader or spokesman.

But that did not faze the leathery-lunged Philadelphian. Shortly after leaving the White House, more emanated from his office a press release beginning as follows:

"A group of members of Congress, headed by Representative Clare G. Fenerty, called at the White House . . . etc."

Naval Maneuvers

Ill-feeling between the foreign naval attaches in Washington and the Navy Department continues to increase. Chief cause is the Navy's refusal to give the naval attaches what they consider "courtesy" information regarding the American fleet.

After the recent maneuvers in the Pacific, the foreign attaches got together and through their dean, Russian Vice Admiral Paul Yurevitch Oras, formally asked for information regarding the results of the maneuvers.

After receiving the request, Captain William D. Puleston, Chief of Naval Intelligence, telephoned that the information would be forthcoming in two or three days. The naval attaches, expecting that the Navy Department was taking this time to prepare an elaborate report, waited patiently.

At last, however, each attaché received one mimeographed sheet containing about 200 words. It opened with the highly informative statement that the purpose of the Pacific maneuvers was to train personnel. The information which followed was equally unimportant and did not even equal what every attaché could read in the newspapers.

So the naval attaché corps was furious.

About a week later, they gave a farewell luncheon to Captain A. R. Dewar, British naval attaché, and descendant of the famous makers of Scotch whisky. He was returning to England.

Captain Puleston, always invited to affairs of this kind, was not asked. But the day of the luncheon he telephoned one of the luncheon hosts.

"Someone said something about the Dewar luncheon some time ago," he said, "but subsequently I did not get an invitation. I had another luncheon invitation today, and did not know quite what to do about it."

"Oh, by all means accept the invitation," was the reply.

REVOLT AGAIN RIPS MEXICO; WATCH BORDER

Deny Troops to be Placed Along Frontier by Arizona Officials

PEASANTS IN REVOLT

Three Dictators Face Expulsion, Death

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 24—Acting Governor James Herby of Arizona today denied reports that the Arizona national guard would be called into service to patrol the Mexican border in this state.

With Governor B. B. Moore enroute to Washington, D. C., Herby said any plan to call out the guardsmen for border service because of the Mexican revolution would require his sanction.

MEXICO CITY, July 24—Three state dictators faced expulsion and possible death today as the state-directed rebellion of more than 20,000 peasants on the east coast to the Texas border threatened to spread all over the country.

Cardenas' Aides Dead

Two of the rebel followers of President Lázaro Cardenas were killed at Villa Juarez, in the state of Tamaulipas, where the "campesinos" overthrew municipal governments in thirty towns to oust supporters of ex-President Plutarco Elias Calles.

All night long three thousand peasants besieged a defiant Governor Rafael Villareal in the Tamaulipas state legislative palace at the capital, Victoria, demanding his resignation. Seven thousand more waited outside the town, ready to march on the capital at a command from their leaders.

Mounting machine guns atop the palace, Gov. Villareal truculently refused to surrender.

TERRE HAUTE STILL TENSE

Indiana Guardsmen Remain In Strike-ridden City Though Picketing Ends.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 24—A tense situation still existed in this strike town city today in spite of the fact that normal business activity was re-established. Sixteen hundred national guardsmen still were in nominal charge of the city and will remain on duty at least until tomorrow, it was announced.

The strike was called off with dramatic suddenness last night, following a meeting of the Vigo county central labor council, representing 48 unions.

Thomas N. Taylor, American Federation of Labor organizer, in announcing termination of the general strike declared labor leaders believed "the department of labor is now able to handle the situation."

He said the strike had been showing the solidarity of labor in "one hundred percent effective, Terre Haute," and denounced the declaration of martial law and the concentration of guardsmen. Rioting, which for a time threatened to become serious, broke out at the stamping plant last night shortly before announcement of the termination of the strike.

A mob of 1000 strikers and sympathizers stormed the plant, guardsmen, throwing tear gas bombs and swinging rifle butts freely, repulsed the four advances of the rioters and finally broke up the mob by arresting 100 of the more boisterous rioters.

DAVEY OFFERS HELP IN RIVER CONTROL PLAN

Asks Crowell to Help Put Scioto-Sandusky Plan in Action

MEET NEXT WEEK

Project Would be Largest in All Ohio

CLEVELAND, July 24—Benedict Crowell, regional director of the National Emergency council, will confer with Gov. Martin L. Davey in Columbus next week on a plan for co-ordinating all agencies interested in pushing the $49,000,000 Scioto-Sandusky conservancy project through to realization.

Crowell last week was requested by L. W. Adams of Columbus, general counsel for the conservancy district, to act in the capacity of co-ordinator. Crowell withheld decision pending official word from Davey.

Davey to Co-Operate

Yesterday, it was learned, Davey wrote to Crowell as follows:

"The state administration is most anxious to co-operate with the various federal agencies, particularly on the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy project.

"I solicit your good offices in order that a definite works program may be formulated and put into action in Ohio."

Crowell, before leaving for Louisville today for a WPA conference, said he would go to Columbus early next week to meet with Davey and other state officials on the Scioto-Sandusky program.

The conservancy project, if approved at Washington and work started, will be the largest enterprise in Ohio.

Now, in 1935 Miss Tilton is tired of waiting on the man who refuses to make good his promise.

GROSS INCOME TAX EXPECTED

Dargusch Says Deletion of Levy on Foods, Clothing, Would Force Action.

COLUMBUS, July 24—If growing opposition to re-enactment of the sales tax law is successful in deleting from the present levy taxes on food, clothing and other necessities, then a gross income tax for Ohioans next year is assured.

This was the opinion today of Carlton S. Dargusch, vice-chairman of the State Taxation commission, following his appearance before the Senate Finance committee, which is working on a tax program for next year.

"If the sales tax law is curbed in its scope, it will mean a loss of revenue of about $30,000,000 per year," Mr. Dargusch said. "The only alternative then is the gross income tax. A tax of one per cent on all incomes above $1000 would net the state $30,000,000."

Although observers predict a stiff battle in the legislature over the sales tax, it is believed that the law will be re-enacted. Few predict however, that it will be passed again in its present form, which is expected to yield $54,000,000 in net revenue this year.

Opposition to certain features of the law, particularly the levies on food, is so apparent, that the joint legislative committee, may prepare a Gross Income tax bill to present to the legislature with its tax program.

OHIO FUEL WILLING TO TALK RATES WITH CITY, JAY SAYS

Company Awaiting Invitation; Phipps Writes Another Letter To Mayor.

The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. will be willing to talk a new rate with Circleville at any time the council issues the utility an invitation, Harold M. Jay of Chillicothe, gas company executive, declared today in a visit to this city.

But it may be quite a while before such an invitation is forthcoming since a number of councilmen have indicated they are willing to wait a while longer to learn what the Universal Pipeline Co. is going to do. So far there have been a number of letters sent to city officials and other individuals by W. H. Phipps of the company pleading action, but nothing definite has been done.

Nearly Year Gone

It is almost a year since city council approved a contract with the pipeline company calling for a cheap gas at the city limits.

The latest letter received from Phipps by Mayor W. B. Cady asks that city officials confer with Mr. Dickey, Portsmouth, chief of the department of laws, to determine whether the four cities which have given contracts to the pipeline company want to enter a blanket performance of contract bond or negotiate such a step as individuals. Chillicothe, Portsmouth and Jackson are other cities which the pipeline company has contracted to serve.

Chillicothe council, Monday evening, read a new gas ordinance for the first time then tabled it with the utilities committee. This committee, too, is awaiting action by the pipeline company.

Aids Larger Users

The ordinance read in the Rossco city does not benefit the small gas user so much as the larger since no saving is shown until after 5,000 cubic feet have been saved. The bill after that shows a saving of from five cents on 6,000 feet to $9.25 on 100,000 cubic feet.

PLENTY OF HANDS, U. S. SERVICE SAYS

COLUMBUS, July 24 — Statewide survey completed here today by the National Reemployment service indicates no scarcity of general farm hands and harvest workers in Ohio.

Demand of farmers in southern and central counties of the state have been met quickly and the supply is not yet exhausted, according to H. R. Justice, Ohio director.

Statistical data points to an abundance of harvest hands available also in counties of northern Ohio.

Beer Drinking Champion Is Facing Diet of Milk

BALTIMORE, July 24—Emil Cella, the new national beer guzzling champion, is willing to meet all challengers for his title—if they will drink milk instead of brew.

Cella downed a half gallon of beer Monday night in 27.6 seconds, to break the record of 32 seconds set in Milwaukee.

But today Cella is in Johns Hopkins hospital suffering the tortures of an abdominal ache. Physicians said it is nothing serious—only a broken blood vessel in the stomach from consuming too much beer in too little time.

The pains attacked the beer champion a few hours after he set the record. For the week preceding his speed try, Cella went in training—i. e. He consumed beer almost constantly. This, doctors say, coupled with his enormous appetite, led to the stomach condition.

Among his gastronomic feats, Johns Hopkins scientists learned, are the following:

The same night he broke the record he downed a mess of hard shelled crabs—thoughtlessly forgetting to remove all of the six shells.

At another sitting he once gobbled six fried chickens. His favorite delicacy is raw veal. He also turns to grass on certain occasions.

But for the next few weeks, doctors have decreed, the champ's diet will consist of milk.

Four Officers Leave Wednesday Morning With "Hoodlums"

RISHKO "BAD TYPE"

Detweiler Tells Officers Boy is Dangerous

Four young Allentown, Pa., hoodlums, whose "crime careers" were brought to a sudden end a week ago Sunday with their capture northeast of the city by a posse of officers and farmers, today were enroute to their home state to face the bar of justice.

Nick Rishko, 17, and Steve Surina, 18, confessed killers of Joseph Rathburn, night watchman of an Allentown junk-yard, left the city at 7 a. m. today in the hands of four police officers from Allentown.

The chief of detectives of Allentown, William Detweiler, told Sheriff Charles Radcliff, before their departure that "Allentown and surrounding communities were deeply grateful to the local officers for capturing the quartet."

Rishko Dangerous

Rishko, Detweiler said, is a dangerous character of the worst type. Police have been on his trail for more than a year.

Detweiler questioned Rishko and Surina Tuesday night in the presence of Sheriff Radcliff, Prosecuting Attorney Ray W. Davis and sheriff's deputies.

Rishko, a baby-faced youth, talked freely to the officer who has been trying to "get" him for more than a year. Questioning revealed that he is a product of the foreign, uneducated section of Allentown where unemployment and poverty necessarily breed crime. His career began at the age of nine when he was sent to a reformatory, a kind of industrial school.

Career Long One

He ran away from this institution, was returned, escaped again, was next sent to a reform school, and finally to the state hospital. He has committed robberies by the score, stolen at least six automobiles in Allentown and has admitted firing one of the shots that killed the night watchman.

He told Chief Detweiler that he didn't learn the tricks of crime in his home community but in the reform school where he was imprisoned for a year.

Rishko admitted to Detweiler that he wrote a letter to the latter sometime ago in which he said: "I'll never cry on your shoulder . . . if and when you get me some day."

And last night Rishko didn't cry on any one's shoulder. Got.

BURDEN OF RELIEF ON MUNICIPALITIES

URBANA, July 24.—Cham-paign-co's relief burden was turned back to township and municipal officials today by Harold Pence, county relief administrator here.

Announcing that county relief funds for July are exhausted, Pence notified officials of the subdivisions. Approximately 2,000 relief clients must obtain aid from township trustees and city officials for the remainder of July, he said.

No more money will be available until the August allocation is received from state relief headquarters. Pence said he is taking this action on his own initiative, however, no instructions having been received from C. C. Stillman, federal administrator at Columbus.

The county's July budget, Pence explained, was cut $4,000 to $14,500.

ten out of bed at 11:15 p. m. for the questioning, he was calm, and seemed sure of himself as he answered Detweiler's questions. He re-enacted the shooting of the Allentown watchman on Nov. 9, 1934. "Four of us were there," he said. "Steve (Surina) was standing next to me. We told the old man to put up his hands. He drew a gun. We fired. There were three shots altogether."

Expects Long Term

Rishko said he was anxious to get back to Allentown. "What do you think the court will do with you this time?" he was asked by Detweiler. "Oh, 20 years I suppose," the young hoodlum answered in an unconcerned tone.

Surina assumed an "I don't care" attitude throughout his questioning. He had a snarl on his face and was not as willing to talk as his "boss" and "pal" whom he calls "Nicky."

The stories of Surina and Rishko in regard to the shooting did not agree. Surina said there were only two shots fired. Rishko had said there were three. Rishko had also told the authorities that he was the only member of the captured quartet who could drive a car, but Surina claimed he, too, was a driver.

Started at 10

Surina's crime career began when he was 10 years old. His mother is dead and he did not know the whereabouts of his father, he said. He has been with Rishko almost daily since the shooting last November, he said.

Chief Detweiler does not believe that Surina is implicated in the shooting of the watchman. Before his death, the night watchman told authorities that there were only three youths and he identified one of these as Rishko.

Detweiler believes Surina wants to get out of the state of Ohio in order to escape the charge of shooting Detective George Ruder. "He'll probably get off easier in Work will be provided for 7,000 men directly and 4,000 others indirectly for a three-year period, according to estimates.

Consummation of the Scioto-Sandusky plans would eliminate a flood menace in 17 Ohio counties lying in the area affected by the two rivers. The Miami conservancy project is completed, work is in progress in the Muskingum watershed, and only one other major area remains aside from the Scioto-Sandusky—the Maumee river area in northwestern Ohio. That section is very flat, however, and some authorities believe that usual conservancy work could not be effected there.

At a signal, they marched in and ousted all supporters of Villareal and Calles.

Five thousand "campesinos" participated in the insurrection at Tampico. Besides Victoria, the peasants met with resistance at Matamoros, where Mayor Enrique Munguia, defying demands of two thousand agrarians that his government retire, threw a police cordon around the city plaza.

PRESIDENT URGES TAX BILL ACTION

WASHINGTON, July 24.—President Roosevelt today moved to speed action on the new tax bill which is making slow progress in the house ways and means committee.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, apparently acting at the request of the White House, offered to appear before ways and means committee Democrats in closed session to discuss the program.

The Democrats, however, refused the offer temporarily and decided to go ahead writing their own inheritance, gift, individual and corporation tax measure.

AAA AMENDMENTS FACING CONTEST

WASHINGTON, July 24—Dramatically modified by the senate, the AAA amendments threaten to provoke stormy debate in conference with the house.

The senate stripped the house bill of many of its provisions for federal control and licensing of food producers and handlers. Senate progressives forced into the bill a provision permitting suits against the government to recover processing taxes, both past and future.

Another senate amendments would give President Roosevelt discretionary power to fix quotas on competing imports and another would appropriate $40,000,000 to enable the secretary of agriculture to carry out his program for purchase and eradication of diseased cattle. This would raise the total appropriation for this work to $90,000,000.

A damage suit for $500 is now being conducted before Mr. Adkins.

MISS RUGGLES HELPS LIBRARY

The present summer brought to the Circleville Public Library an interesting and valued gift.

Miss Elizabeth J. Ruggles, whose regard for her home town has been shown in many ways, added almost two hundred volumes to the collection which she had previously given to the local library.

The books received this summer were largely those reserved by Miss Ruggles at the time of the closing of the family home in Circleville, when many other volumes were presented to the library. About two years ago Miss Ruggles sent from California later additions to her personal collection.

The total number of books, which now comprise Miss Ruggles' gift, is about four hundred, each volume of which has been marked by a handsome book plate provided by the donor. In making her last contribution provision was also made for repairs and re-binding for those volumes that had become damaged while in storage.

The tastes of a cultured home are shown by the collection in which the best of fiction, poetry, and general literature predominates. In the gift of this summer are complete sets of the novels of Scott and Dickens, the later an English edition with attractive illustrations.

There are, also, many reference books, histories, the works of standard poetry, and a very pleasing selection of light and amusing stories, which should prove entertaining re-reading, and diversion for those who have missed such writers as Ruth McEnery Stuart, Paul Leicester Ford, Emory Stuart, Paul Leicester Amelia Barr, F. Marion Crawford, Jeffery Farnol, Myra Kelly, Frances Little, Frank R. Stockton, S. Weir Mitchell, and Louisa E. Richards.

NATURE PRESENTS—Genet (Common)

WHERE FOUND
France, Spain, parts of Asia and Africa.

PHYSICAL FEATURES

Twenty-three inches long, eight inches high; long, slim body; pads of hind feet naked; short fur. Color—reddish yellow, thickly strewn with spots; tail black ringed with narrow white.

SPAN OF LIFE

Two years.

FOOD

Birds, eggs, fruit and small animals.

OFFSPRING

Three or four.

Genets are longer and more slender than the true civet. Not afraid to live near houses, they prefer the bushy country to the forest, however. Easily tamed, they are often used as house pets for the destruction of rats and mice in southern Europe and in Egypt. But the genet has a savage instinct which is not sated by mere rats and mice; young chickens and fowls are often their victims. The civet has a curious gland from which a musk-like scent is extracted.

DE GUSTIBUS

WONG CHING, most celebrated of Chinese chefs, sagely observes: "If you grow up believing certain things are terrible and nobody but a Chinaman would eat it," just remember Chinese children also are taught that some of your foods are dreadful and only a barbarian would touch them."

Whereupon Wong goes off into verbal ecstasies over ancient eggs, shark-fin soup and such-like Oriental concoctions from which the average hungry, flapjack-and-beefsteak-conditioned American could do a sharp oblique.

California Indians still grind dried grasshoppers into pancake meal, and to the Filipino on fiesta nothing is daintier food than a half-hatched egg, died beet-red to boot. A New York restaurant is advertising seal stew on its 75-cent table-de-hote dinner right now, while octopus stew, grilled snails and pigs' ears are on the daily menu of dozens of downtown Gotham eating places. One need not step from beneath the protection of the American flag to meet with foods Wong Ching never heard about. Appetite is a normal human function; its satisfaction presents the average urban American with a chance for adventure and discovery while taking ease such as not even literature affords.

The quest of new palate-ticklers and stomach-satisfiers is without end, yet with endless opportunity. For the still timorous dining room adventurer, however, the quest is best undertaken without detailed research. Let the tastebuds be judge if the food is good, not the inhibited eye and mind conning ingredients drawn, perhaps, from the purities of zoology and botany.

A second helping of braised porcupine, please -----.

HOT STUFF

TOPEKA, KANSAS, is in the middle of the heat belt, but as if it weren't hot enough with the temperature above one hundred there, some mischievous citizen has provoked a sizzling wave of artificial warmth. He has proposed to change the names of all the streets. The storm that followed is still in progress.

But whether or not it was his theory that the argument would take the collective mind of Topeka off the weather, that is what happened. Now, three weeks after the proposal first was made, the discussion is going full blast. And although Topeka may be hotter than ever under the collar because of it, her citizens have forgotten the atmospheric warmth in the heat of battle. Its daily progress draws a column in the newspapers, while a temperature of 103 gets but a line. It is the same on Topeka's streets and in Topeka's homes — the weather holds second place to the names, present and as suggested for the future, of Topeka's streets.

It may also be that the person who suggested the changes expected nothing to come of it. If he had had any experience of similar proposals he should have been certain nothing would happen. He should have known that citizens do not consent readily to be moved overnight to a new address. He should have known many of the streets for which new names were offered originally had been named in honor of pioneer citizens and that their loyal descendants would fight like wildcats to retain the family distinction. Such proposals always stir up latent sentiment and usually that sentiment defeats the principle of mere efficiency or convenience.

SIXTY MILES TOO FAST

NOT infrequently men who profess to speak with authority on the subject of the perils of motor travel deary the importance of excessive speed as a factor in producing fatal accidents on the highways. They draw a distinction between speed and reckless driving and attribute the prevalent dangers of the road to the incompetent and irresponsible operation of cars.

Impressive refutations of the theory are advanced, however, by Governor Hoffman, of New Jersey, who is qualified to discuss the subject authoritatively, and also by State Motor Vehicle Commissioner John A. Harnett, of New York. "The faster motor vehicles are moving," Mr. Harnett concludes, "the more serious the result if an accident occurs." The logic of this statement is undeniable.

Few drivers, Governor Hoffman says, writing in the American Magazine, "are either physically or emotionally equipped 'to drive at sixty miles an hour. A mile a minute at night is folly and the drunken driver 'presents a menace which beggars words.'"

The most important of the governor's declarations, however, is his unequivocal statement that "the vast majority of fatal accidents are caused by speeds too high for the surrounding conditions." Furthermore, he proves mathematically, on the basis of experiments with the operation of brakes at all speeds and under all conditions, that with slight pressure on the accelerator the dangers to human life are multiplied.

And, after all, what does it profit a driver to gain five minutes at the risk of one or more lives.

It seems that a lot of relief money is wasted on people who have two or three dollars a week of their own.

You can tell a good citizen. If the police pick him up, he doesn't know the right people to get him out.

No wonder! Loss of sleep dulls the mind, and all decisions in a crisis are made by statesmen who have lost sleep.

A valet of U. S. Grant is dead at the age of 102. The great general, judging by photographs, is one of the last men we would ever have suspected of having had a valet.

THE DEVIL'S MANSION

READ THIS FIRST:
Driving through a terrific thunderstorm in western Canada, Blair Rodman skids off the road and into a ditch. A light through the trees beckons him.
(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 2

A RUMBLE of thunder, like an avalanche tearing down a mountain-side, a second later, a streak of jagged lightning across the sky. In the moment that it illuminated the heavens, Blair saw a house before him, a big place, three stories high, with a broad porch across the front; a mansion, with queer pointed turrets at each corner. Then the sky was darker than ever. . . the house seemed swallowed up in the blackness, and only a little glow ahead told him where he had seen it.

Someone was up, otherwise a light would not be burning. Surely in this house, he could stay for the night. In the morning, there would be a car to haul him out of the mud. Persons who kept such a house would have some kind of a car or truck. Blair stumbled onto the porch, and scraped the mud off his shoes on the steps. Then, hesitating a moment, he looked at the two doors on the porch. One which seemed to be the main entrance, and another which led into the lighted room. He chose the latter. No one answered his first knock, nor his second. Was it possible that no one was in? He could not see through the heavy drapes that covered the windows, but he thought he heard someone talking.

Perhaps on account of the storm, his knock had not been heard. This time, he pounded with his fists, and then stepped back rather embarrassed at his boldness.

The door opened a crack, and a woman's face peered out. Blair thought he had never seen such a face. Thin and gaunt, with high, broad cheek bones; yellow wrinkled skin, brown eyes deep set, and gray hair drawn so tightly back that the part in the middle was tinged with red near the low forehead. The woman was holding a candle above her head.

He saw no more than her face, for her body was concealed behind the door. She was staring at him, her lips tightly closed in a hard straight line; lips that seemed a little blue to Blair.

"I've had an accident . . . my car is mired off the road in the mud. Have you a truck here to haul me out? Or could I stay until the storm is over? I'm soaking wet, and my car has no top," he explained quickly.

The woman's brown eyes never left his face. Eyes seeming to see him, yet not evincing the slightest surprise or understanding. When he looked at them closer, he saw that no eyelashes shaded them, and yet above them shaggy black eyebrows, long and unkempt, met at the ridge of the strange woman's large hooked nose.

Still the door did not open any wider, still the woman stared at him, her mouth closed. She was as tall as Blair, and her head blocked his vision into the lighted room.

Blair thought he had never seen such a face.

"Please, I'm wet and cold. My car is stuck in the mud. May I come in for a while and get warm?" Blair was a little exasperated and his tone showed it. Perhaps, though, the woman could not understand English. She looked foreign.

"Can't you understand me?" The woman nodded her head slowly in the affirmative.

"Well, then let me in." Blair put his hand on the door to force it open. Again the woman shook her head. "This time in the negative."

"But I tell you I'm cold, and must have help . . ." Blair began, then stopped suddenly.

An imperious voice from within had spoken . . . a woman's voice.

"Nita! Close the door!"

Someone else was in the room. Perhaps this other person would be more sympathetic. Angry by this time, Blair pushed the woman aside and entered the room.

He stood blinking a moment until his eyes became accustomed to the light. Then he looked around bewildered. The room was large, very large, one of those old-fashioned drawing rooms, which rambled nearly the length of a house. He was standing on a soft Aubusson rug, the roses faded with age. Around him were fragile French chairs, the gilt peeling from their slender legs. Near a table burdened with red checked china, shagreened and bouquered of beaded flowers, was a Reclamer sofa, upholstered in frayed yellow satin. The walls of the room, except for a portion at the back, which held bookcases filled with books, were hung with large tapestries. There were no electric lights, nor any fixtures for them. Several oil lamps, turned low, and innumerable candles gave all the light the big room had.

Past the square rosewood piano, which stood in the center of the room, Blair saw, at the far end, a fire burning brightly in the grate of a brown marble fireplace. More candles and more shepherdesses guarded its mantelpiece.

In a big chair by the fire, the only comfortable chair in the room, a woman was sitting, facing the glowing logs.

"I'm sorry to intrude, madam," he said, quickly going over to her side. "But my car . . ."

"I heard what you said to Nita," the woman interrupted, "but I can do nothing for you."

If Nita's face was disagreeable, Blair thought this woman's was even more so. Burnished red hair sprinkled sparsely with gray, bristled over her heavy masculine features. Her eyes too heavy for her big head. Her small green eyes were gazing at him steadily, and her lips, coarse and thick, were parted over large, white teeth. Her skin, yellowed, hung in several folds under her chin. Even the dull black dress, rather low in the neck, did not conceal the size of her breasts and the husky proportions of her form.

Dinner Stories

THE "DOER"

"What position did you hold in your last job?" the manager asked the small applicant for the post.

"I was a doer sir," said the boy, seriously.

"A doer! Whatever's that?"

"Well, sir, when my boss wanted anything done he would tell the cashier, the cashier would tell the bookkeeper, the bookkeeper would tell the junior clerk, and the clerk would tell me."

"And what would happen then?"

"As I hadn't anybody to tell, I'd do it."

A SOLUTION

They were on honeymoon, and had just had their first disagreement.

Said he: "Perhaps I was a little cruel."

"Yes, you were!" she replied.

"I wasn't!" he said, in a hurt tone. Then: "Well, look here, I'll say I was cruel if you'll say I wasn't."

"Very well, peach blossom, you weren't!"

"Then I'm sorry if I was."

Poems That Live

CUPID STUNG

Cupid once upon a bed
Of roses laid his weary head;
Luckless urchin, not to see
Within the leaves a slumbering bee.

The bee awakened—with anger wild
The bee awaked, and stung the child.

Loud and piteous are his cries:
To Venus quick he runs, he flies;

"Oh Mother! I am wounded through—
I die with pain—in sooth I do!

Stung by some little angry thing,
Some serpent on a tiny wing—

A bee it was—for once, I know,
I heard a rustic call it so."

Thus he spoke, and she the while
Heard him with a soothing smile;

Then said, "My infant, if so much
Thou feel the little wild bee's touch,

How must the heart, ah, Cupid!
be,

The hapless heart that's stung by thee!" —Thomas Moore

"DO I LOVE THEE?"

Do I love thee? Ask the bee
If she loves the flowery lea,
Where the honeysuckle blows
And the fragrant clover grows.

As she answers, Yes or No,
Darling! take my answer so.

Do I love thee? Ask the bird
When her matin song is heard
If she loves the sky so fair,
Fleecy cloud and liquid air.

As she answers, Yes or No,
Darling! take my answer so.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

John Barrymore's most recent picture, the mirth-provoking comedy riot, "20th Century," opens tomorrow at the Grand Theatre.

On the stage "20th Century" was one of the most successful productions of its season, and screen rights to it were sought by every Hollywood producer.

Columbia Studios, producers of "Lady for a Day," "Man's Castle" and "It Happened One Night" were the successful bidders. The play and screen adaptation are by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur.

Carole Lombard, Walter Connolly, Roscoe Karns and Ralph Forbes will be seen in the cast supporting Barrymore.

AT THE CIRCLE

Finally overcoming the stigma of the perennial juvenile, Lloyd Hughes returns to the screen after an absence of several years on the stage, in his first character role, an important part in "Honey-moon Limited," the fast-moving Monogram comedy now showing at the Circle theatre.

Hughes got typed as a juvenile back in 1918 and for 15 years was called upon to play parts which fell in that category. In desperation, he turned to the stage and after two years of more mature roles, came back to Hollywood to accept his Monogram assignment in "Honey-moon Limited."

AT THE CLIFTONA

Presenting Anne Shirley, O. P. Heggie and Helen Westley, the winning trio of "Anne of Green Gables," in roles rich with sympathy and human appeal. RKO Radio brings "Chasing Yesterday" to the screen in an adaptation of "The Crime of Sylvestre Bonnard," the classic novel by Anatole France which elevated the famous French author to the French Academy.

A fiction classic older and as firmly established as the L. M. Montgomery story which swept Miss Shirley to stardom and worldwide prominence, "Chasing Yesterday" makes its first appearance in dramatic form, taking its place as a leading pictorialization from the literary classics.

Although a favorite with readers for 54 years, it never before has been produced as a picture or play. Now showing at the Cliftona.

Anne Shirley, of course, depicts Jean, and O. P. Heggie as Sylvestre and Helen Westley as Therese complete the trio. In addition to Trent Durkin, the supporting cast includes Doris Lloyd, Elizabeth Patterson, John Qualen, Etienne Girardot and Hilda Vaughn.

News of the Farm and Home for the Rural Readers

PARE BUDGETS, FARM AGENTS URGE IN STATE

Rural People Advised to Study Budgets, Urge Officials to Economize.

Rural people of Ohio are urged by officials of the Ohio Farm Bureau to inspect their local budgets and insist that local taxing officials practice every economy possible. This appeal is made in anticipation of serious reductions expected in the revenue available for local tax districts in 1935.

In the minds of many people is a collection of items representing what officials in a taxing district expect to spend in the fiscal year. A budget should give a complete, and honest picture of the financial condition of the taxing district; it must show the extent of its indebtedness and the means to be employed to meet sinking funds and interest; it means an analysis of all public activities to determine their usefulness and necessity; it means the elimination of all that should be dropped. While we are appropriating and spending money, we must consider means and resources, said the farm bureau officials. The fundamental questions we must answer are: First, what are the most necessary functions required for the welfare of the people? Second, what is the ability of the people themselves to finance these functions?

For five years local governments have suffered rapidly declining revenues and have had to borrow on a large scale to meet current obligations. For 1935 about $45,000,000 in poor relief bonds have been authorized, $55,000,000 in bonds have been refunded, and more than $20,000,000 in deficiency bonds and scrip have been issued. The Ohio legislature has given permission for the further issuance of deficiency bonds through 1939.

The time has come for local taxing districts to return to a "pay-as-you-go" basis as far as operating expenses are concerned. This issue must be faced and now is the time to face it with foresight, said the farm bureau authorities.

TOBACCO GROWERS TO VOTE PROGRAMS

Tobacco growers in Ohio, both producers of burley and cigar leaf, will vote, sometime late in July, whether they favor continuing a production control program for tobacco. Present programs expire with the 1935 crop year.

The referendum are called by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, which wishes to be guided by growers' opinions. County tobacco committees will be assisted with the conduct of the referendum by county agricultural agents, according to J. A. Slipper, state agent in charge of tobacco programs.

Slipper says all growers are urged to vote. Share tenants, share croppers, renters and land owners who are actually engaged in production of tobacco are eligible to vote.

In the most recent referendum of tobacco growers, or producers of fine cured tobacco in southern states, more than 98 per cent of the voters favored continuing a production control program. In that referendum $3 per cent of the eligible farmers cast ballots.

No companion or nurse crop should be used in making seedlings of alfalfa, of the clovers, or of the grasses when sown in July or August. Tests at experiment stations have shown conclusively that summer seedlings made with oats or other grains will be largely unsuccessful. The small grain, it is explained, uses the available moisture and smothers out the young seedlings.

Orchard Day at Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster is scheduled for Friday, Aug. 16.

WHEAT YIELD PRIZE IS $5

Farmers Urged to Sign Blank and Submit it To Herald Office For Prize.

The deadline for reporting wheat yield in an effort to obtain the $5 prize offered by The Herald is July 31 so many of the application blanks are expected to be filed within the next few days.

The newspaper is giving $5 to the farmer having the best average yield per acre in Pickaway-co. The report slip must be signed by the thresher.

Several good yields have been reported but none will be announced until after the deadline, so all of you who have pretty good crops should fill out the blank, have your thresher sign it and see that it gets to The Herald office not later than next Wednesday. That's all there is to it. Some farmer is going to receive $5 for only reporting his crop yield. It might as well be you as anyone else.

$10,000 Prize Club House To Be Given 4-H Members In National Celebration

The 3,800 club members and leaders of St. Louis county, Minn., are to have the finest club house in the country when the building now under construction is presented them in a huge celebration set for August 22 on Lake Esquimaux near Biwabik. It was awarded the county in a national contest sponsored by Sears Roebuck for ranking highest in the efficiency of its 4-H program in contributing to the social and business life of the region.

A sunrise salute, historical pageant, flag raising, band concerts and fireworks feature a dedicatory program in which high national and state government officials will take part. Over 50,000 persons are expected to attend the all day ceremonies.

The building is being erected in a beautifully wooded, donated tract and overlooks Lake Esquimaux, a popular and centrally located recreation spot. The 4-H organization receiving the building will provide perpetual care and a program that will best serve the needs of the county.

forests are to be used for the exterior and will also form the interior walls, which will be dark stained and treated in simple lodge manner. All exterior finished wood trim and roof will be in bright colors and design reminiscent of the decorative work of Indians who once roamed the region.

Is Arrow-shaped
Spacious balconies on two floors flank the two sides of the arrow-shaped building facing the lake. The basement contains all recreational equipment, dressing and game rooms.
A large rustic lounge is a feature of the main floor which is dominated by a huge central fireplace. Adjacent the lounge is an assembly room seating 400 which may also be converted into a dining room or a little theatre. Other features are a small library of 250 selected volumes, and committee and rest rooms.

Sleeping quarters occupy the top floor. Every facility is being incorporated into the building to make it a model of its kind. It is to cost in excess of $10,000.

It is estimated that only 30 per cent of the 1934 production of grapes would be required for making wine, even though the per capita consumption were as large as in pre-prohibition days.

STATE TO GET TWO MILLIONS IN AAA PLANS

Benefits Under Wheat Set-up To Be Increased; Set at 33 Cents a Bushel.

An increase in the rate of benefit payments to wheat growers who signed adjustment contracts with the AAA is announced. The new rate, which applies to the 1935 crop, will be at least 33 cents a bushel on allotments less costs of local administration, which, in Ohio, have averaged about two cents a bushel.

The former rate of payment was 29 cents a bushel less local administrative costs.

This increase of 4 cents a bushel for the 1935 allotments represents an additional income to co-operating wheat growers of approximately $14,000,000, according to AAA officials. Total adjustment payments on the 1935 crop will reach the sum of $115,000,000, it is estimated. Ohio growers will receive approximately $1,999,000.

No change has been made in the processing tax rate. Funds for making the larger payments are those which accrued from the processing tax on wheat produced by farmers who did not take part in the adjustment program.

The administration says there is no connection between the new rate of payment and the wheat contract now being prepared for 1935 and succeeding years. The 1935 crop is the last one covered by the original wheat contract signed two years ago.

PRESIDENT O'NEAL IN OHIO AUGUST 10

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will speak at Wooster, on Saturday, August 10, at the annual joint picnic of the Wayne County Farm Bureau and 4-H clubs, according to James R. Moore, publicity director of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation at Columbus.

This will be the first appearance of President O'Neal at Wooster. He will speak in the grove of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at 2:00 p. m. His subject is "The Future of the American Farmer."

O'Neal is well versed on national and state policies of agriculture, and his viewpoints carry much weight in the agrarian world. Ohio Farm Bureau members and their neighbors are urged to join the Wayne county group in hearing their national cooperative leader discuss problems that are crucial to every farmer, stated Moore.

RECORDS REVEAL UPTURN IN 1934

Comparisons of farm cash incomes for the years 1933 and 1934, as reported by Ohio farmers in day-by-day records, indicate that earnings in the latter year were substantially better than in 1933.

Almost a thousand records for each of the two years were involved in the analysis now completed by the department of rural economics at the Ohio State university. The records revealed net farm income to be $262 greater in the second year.

Average net cash income of 900 farmers in 1934 was $1,124. The average of their labor incomes was $1,159. Labor income is defined as the farm income less an interest charge of 4 per cent. Income from interest on their investments averaged $441.

Result of Python's Embrace

Otis Lloyd, attendant at Frank Buck's live-animal storehouse at Massapequa, L. I., is one of the few men to have been embraced by a python and lived to tell about it. He is shown in hospital after eight men succeeded in uncoiling the snake from his body. The python, which squeezes its prey to death, is seen in a motion picture as it grappled with a tiger. ## Home Helps

Kitchenette Helpful

For those homes which already have a recreation room in the basement or attic, or for those which are about to have one, the kitchenette, tiny though it might be, in conjunction with the play room, will prove invaluable.

Whether the younger members of the family decide to make fudge after a strenuous day of ping pong or father's friends desire cheese and crackers with a cold drink after a game of cards, the kitchenette will be a wise forethought. If mother does her own housework she will appreciate not having other members of the family descend upon her kitchen and if there are servants in the house it will indeed be a blessing to prepare a snack without invading Hannah's sanctum and incurring her displeasure. Paper plates and cups would add to the picnic atmosphere.

Food Storage

With the fruit and vegetable canning season rapidly coming upon us, one's thoughts turn to storage space. A kitchen or hall closet which has been used for odds and ends may easily be prepared with shelves to accommodate cans, jars, and bottles. If an existing closet may not be converted to this use, one may be built in a corner of the kitchen with little trouble or expense.

Flower Shelves

Shelves for flowers may be built across windows and serve as practical purpose as well as be attractive. Plants or bits of colored glass may be placed on the shelves, which may be made of wood, metal, or glass. These will not only be decorative but will add to the privacy of the room. Frequently these shelves are built only at the sides of the window, leaving the center of the glass uncovered and the view unhampered.

An afternoon of swimming followed a delectable picnic lunch on Sunday when the Jolly Campers met at Perry's Park, Washington C. H. A short business session in charge of the president, Marvin Schioering, followed the luncheon hour during which it was decided to send our healthiest members to the county health contest. The club will meet on July 30, at their furnace.

LYNCH CALLS MANAGERS OF 'REC' SQUADS

David Steinhauser Wants To Enter Team Under Circleville Oil Franchise.

Frank A. Lynch, president of the recreation ball league, announced today that a meeting of all managers will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in The Herald office to take action on the withdrawal of one Circleville Oil team and the entry of another squad of players backed by the same company.

Announcement of the withdrawal of the Oils was made Tuesday after Manager Doty Courtwright was unable to get a steady team of players.

David Steinhauser disclosed today that he is ready to put a squad of high school athletes on the field under the Circleville Oil name.

All managers are urged to attend the meeting since several other topics of interest will be discussed such as player transfers, etc.

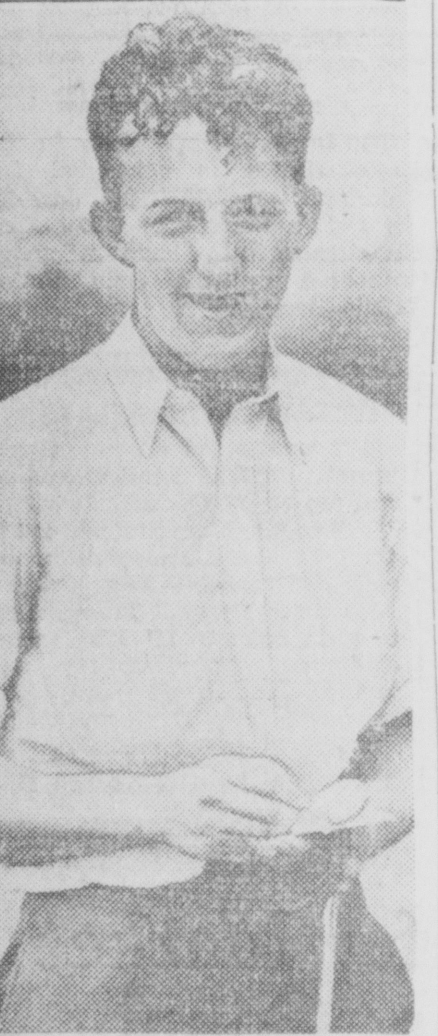

There will be no game played this evening.

The Cities Service Oils won the first half of the league race and will have the same squad in action the second half. The Pickaway Dairy has increased its strength by the addition of Dick Robinson, ex-Circleville Oil catcher. Several other teams have helped themselves to players released from other teams.

As soon as action is taken this evening the second half schedule will be resumed.

"Home Canning for Better Family Meals" is the title of a bulletin available, free, at the offices of county extension agents.

Coach Schmidt Entrained For Home—and Vacation

COLUMBUS, July 24—Football Coach Francis A. Schmidt bade farewell today to members of the Ohio State University athletic department and headed for the hills of Arkansas, where he first gained grid prominence, for what he terms a vacation.

The lanky Texan's idea of a vacation is taking part in three summer football clinics with only a few days rest before returning here to whip the 1935 edition of the Ohio State into shape for the fall.

Schmidt will stay at Arkansas University for a couple of days before heading home to Ft. Worth, Texas to visit "the home folks" as he terms it.

Teach at Texas Tech
A few days visit with his family and then he'll head for Lubbock, Texas where he'll teach the fundamentals of the grid game at Texas Tech until August 3.

From Lubbock, Schmidt will take to the road again for a long jaunt which will wind up in Evanston, Ill., where he's scheduled to teach his methods at the Northwestern coaching school from August 12-23.

Just what he will do after finishing at Northwestern isn't a fact yet but before leaving he intimated that he might take a few days off to tramp through the wilds of Canada.

His stay in Canada will be the only real days of vacation he'll get unless you consider coaching football a means of passing the time.

The Texan, who raised Ohio State high among the collegiate football powers inside of one season, plans to return here Sept. 5 to "get things in shape" before the advance guard of the Buckeyes report for fall practice five days later.

Calls 55 Aspirants
Schmidt revealed that he has invited a squad of 55 aspirants, half of them from the 1934 freshmen team, when practice starts in September.

A seasoned outfit is expected to greet him when he returns. Captain Regis Monahan and Damon Wetzel being the only two regulars who graduated.

At the same time, Damski also said the Twentieth Century sporting club, sponsors of the milk fund, has approached him to get Neusel for Louis, the fight to be held in September.

Damski expressed willingness to take either match, and cabled Neusel to come to America August 1.

Meanwhile Schmeling's plans remained shrouded in a cloud of doubt, with Joe Jacobs, his manager, nearing New York with his report of his dealings with the German ex-heavyweight champion of the world.

The commission also reinstated William Barnes, Grove City, owner of a doped horse which died during the recent Dayton meet. Barnes' reinstatement will be effective August 15, George Cates, commission secretary, said.

CONEY ISLAND RACES AUG. 27

COLUMBUS, July 24—The application for running races at Coney Island, near Cincinnati, from August 27 to October 12, inclusive, today was approved by the Ohio State Racing Commission.

The commission also reinstated William Barnes, Grove City, owner of a doped horse which died during the recent Dayton meet. Barnes' reinstatement will be effective August 15, George Cates, commission secretary, said.

INDIANS CREEP TOWARD MILLERS

COLUMBUS, July 24—Indianapolis remained right on the heels of the league-leading Minneapolis Millers in the American Association race and today was only a game and a half behind the pace setters, the Indians defeating Toledo, 7 to 1, while the Millers lost to Milwaukee, 10 to 3.

The third-place Columbus Red Birds lost ground in the race when they met defeat, 9 to 8, in 14 innings at the hands of the Louisville Colonels. The loss placed the Birds four games from the top.

To game was a pitching duel between Jack Tising of Louisville and Bob Klinger of Columbus after the eighth inning in which Tising allowed four hits in seven and two-thirds innings while Klinger allowed four hits in seven innings.

A homecoming crowd of 8,000 fans watched the Kansas City Blues triumph over St. Paul, 6 to 4 in the series' opener. The Blues got off to an early lead and were never headed.

CADY AND SMITH ANNOUNCE PLATFORMS FOR PRIMARY

MAYOR RUNS ON "RECORD" HE DECLARES

Both Submit Statements Disclosing Plans For Their Administrations.

Two candidates for the Democratic nomination for mayor today had made known their platforms. They are Mayor W. B. Cady, who is seeking his second term, and Raymond H. Smith, former policeman.

D. A. Yates, the third Democratic candidate, announced his platform several weeks ago.

The statements of Cady and Smith follow:

Cady's Platform

"As I have been asked by several citizens to state my platform for the coming nomination for the office of Mayor of our city, I wish to state that my record for the past 13 months will be my platform. I do not want to deceive the public by making a lot of campaign promises which cannot be lived up to like some that have made promises that do not know the conditions as they exist here in the City. I am confident that I am in a position to know just what the conditions are at the present time.

My books and records are open for inspection at any time by any citizen of this city, and these books and records should speak for themselves. I wish to give you an idea of the work done in the past 13 months, it is as follows:

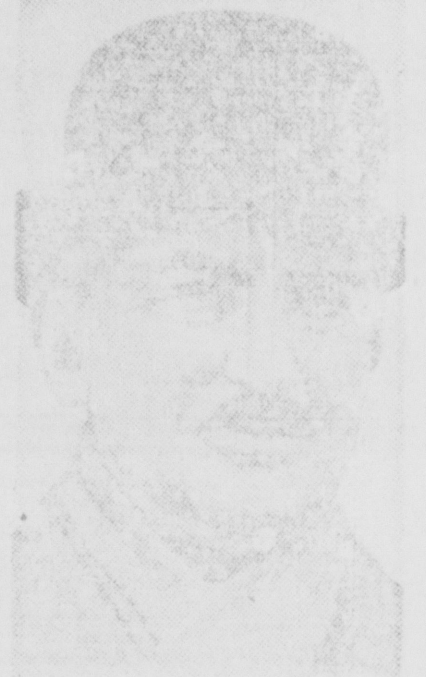

Number of cases both state and city, in the past 13 months these cases have been disposed of—514.

Money collected for the above cases are as follows:

State of Ohio—$53,460;
Pickaway co.—$1978.12;
City of Circleville—$1639.65;
Total—$61,217.77.

I have on file receipts to show that this statement is correct, the money turned over to the state of Ohio are cases which have been brought in by the Highway Patrol for trial which half goes to the City of Circleville, and the other half to the State of Ohio.

Smith's Platform

Smith, who is a sergeant in the Motor Transport division of the Ohio National guard, makes the following statement:

"As a Democratic candidate for the office of Mayor of the City of Circleville, I conscientiously submit for the approval of the citizens and voters the following platform:

1. An administration which will exercise integrity, efficiency and justice.

2. More co-operation relative to City and County relief projects and law enforcement.

3. A thorough investigation of projects and all other problems either major or minor.

4. Enforcement of the law for all people, extending no partiality.

5. More efficient traffic regulations to eliminate congestion and parking difficulties.

6. An administration friendly to all classes of people which will aid the needy and welcome either suggestions or criticisms.

ASPIRANT FOR MAYOR SCORES POLICE FORCE

Lancaster Man Says Officers Should Not Have Helped Round-up Hoodlums.

LANCASTER, July 24.—Dodd Kerns, councilman-at-large, who aspires to be mayor of Lancaster, took the city police to task at Monday night's council meeting because they went to the aid of officers from surrounding counties and cities in the successful capture of a range of criminals nabbed recently in Pickaway co. The round-up, effected through state and local police radio hook-up, put behind bars four desperadoes wanted for murder, holdups and automobile thefts.

Although their proximity to this city (they were on their way here at the time of their capture) constituted a dangerous hazard to Lancaster, Councilman Kerns objected to any local police leaving the city to take part in the round-up. However, at Circleville, where the prisoners were lodged, it was said that the gang would have escaped had it not been for the aid of officers from surrounding points who answered the radio call and rounded up the gunmen in the wild region known as "Devil's Backbone" between Amanda and Circleville. Their ditched car was found five miles from Amanda, headed toward Lancaster.

Kerns said that the officers and equipment were for the protection of Lancaster and he did not believe they should be removed from the city for as long as they remained away on the day of the capture.

Chief Sessler, Officers Highley and Hutsler joined the posse which effected the roundup. Highley was with the group that caught Frank Stavinsky, one of the mobsters.

City Well Protected

Before leaving the police office, Chief Sessler summoned Officer Bauer, night policeman, to take charge of the radio. All other night officers were ready for duty at a moment's notice in case of need. Sessler's own automobile and Bauer's were left at the police station to take the place of the one police car that was used in capturing the criminals.

When appraised of Kern's attack today, Sessler merely said, "They were coming this way. We had to help head them off. Had they reached here they would surely have stolen an automobile, possibly staged a holdup and might even have committed murder doing it."

What if We'd Asked

"Suppose we had refused the call to aid. Could we then ask for similar aid if such an emergency arise here? No, we can't let anyone's political ambitions interfere with the state and local police system being built up to wipe out crime in this state. Columbus police answered the call in a jiffy. One of them was shot making the capture and his life is still hanging in the balance. I haven't heard any candidate for mayor criticizing the Columbus police for the part they played in nabbing these murderers and robbers. It was estimated there were over 10 Columbus police cruisers and three detective cruisers from the same city assisting in this capture. Lancaster was the first city called for aid by the state police and was the first force on the job in a police cruiser."

SALARIES HIGHER

MASSILLON, July 24.—Salaries of municipal employees today had been increased retroactive to April 1. The pay of police and firemen was boosted from $105 to $133.33 a month.

Takes Risk for Pets

HINGHAM, Mass.—Love and pride for his pets, a cocker spaniel, Ginger, and a pony, Topsy, 10-year-old Willard Walker pleaded with doctors to postpone an operation so he could enter them in the "South Shore pet show. Topsy won a prize last year and young Walker believes his pets will carry away laurels again this year.

CITY OF FLAGS TO GREET VETERANS IN DAYTON CONCLAVE

What is expected to be the greatest array of flags ever displayed at any American Legion State convention is planned for the Department of Ohio 1935 convention which is being held in Dayton Aug. 25, 26, and 27.

After six months of contacting the large decorators of the country, many of whom have been the official decorators for the National convention, the contract was awarded to the Herman J. Neu Flag & Decorating Company of Kenton, Ohio, who are nationally known for their ability in assembling decorations for conventions of every nature.

The decorations for this meet will consist of 130 lines of flags, seven flags to a line, which will be distributed on the principal streets of Dayton.

25 Miles Out

There will be flags displayed on all the principal highways leading into Dayton for a radius of 25 miles.

One of the outstanding features of this convention will be the store front decorations by the merchants which will welcome the Legionnaires into their respective places of business.

Merchants along the highways will also be contacted to decorate with the Legion emblem and National colors.

Colored life-size cutouts, reproduced from the "Doughboy" stationed at the main entrance of Memorial Hall will be mounted on every lamp post in the downtown section which will turn the streets into an avenue of bayonets.

Flags Everywhere

The colorful decorations which will mark the opening of this convention will not be confined to

Marked Men

Forty-six millionaires—on the basis of 1933 returns—are affected by the President's recommendation that graduated rates be imposed on incomes of more than $1,000,000.

Under existing law the "ceiling" on graduated rates is $1,000,000. Up to that figure, income taxes are assessed on a graduated basis. Beyond that sum the taxes pay only on the same basis as the individual with a $1,000,000 income.

The President wants the graduated rate system extended beyond the $1,000,000 mark. To what point and how much he did not say.

Treasury experts who have been preparing data on the matter estimate that a minimum of at least $50,000,000 annually can be garnered.

The more-than-million incomes reported in 1933 are divided as follows:

$1,000,000 to $1,500,000—29
$1,500,000 to $2,000,000—6
$2,000,000 to $3,000,000—8
$3,000,000 to $4,000,000—1
$4,000,000 to $5,000,000—1
$5,000,000 and over—1.

The number of this category of incomes for 1934 has not as yet been made public. With the repeal of the "pink slip" publicity provision the identity of these individuals became preserved in secrecy.

OHIO NEEDS MORE CONCRETE ROADS

Where these lines meet is "THE END OF THE ROAD"

INFERIOR, temporary highway surfaces clamor for more and more maintenance and reconstruction year after year. Eventually, any new roads are out of the question. All the annual road money goes for upkeep! Then, "the end of the road" has been reached, both literally and figuratively.

But Here's Big News!
Taxpayers save from $114 to $409 per mile per year in the cost of surface maintenance on concrete highways compared with other types of pavement.

Concrete is the standard by which all roads are judged... insuring maximum safety, comfort and economy for motorists. Easily visible at night... easy on tires, gas, oil and repairs.

Write for "Road Maintenance Costs," which gives the itemized figures.

Gen. MacArthur Offered Command of Independent Forces in Philippine Army

WASHINGTON — General Douglas MacArthur, soon to retire as Chief of Staff, has received an offer to train and organize the new Philippine Army.

The offer comes from Manuel Quezon, who will run for President of the Philippines under the new constitution and is almost certain to be elected. The constitution also provides for the organization of a Philippine army along American lines.

General MacArthur commanded American forces in the Philippines just before he became Chief of Staff, and is expected to accept the offer. He would have to retire from the U. S. Army in order to do so.

Tooter

When it comes to tooting his own horn, Representative Clare G. Fenerty is in a class by himself.

When a delegation of congressmen called on the President the other day to discuss the Mexican religious dispute, Fenerty was in the group. By no stretch of the imagination was he a leader or spokesman.

But that did not take the leathery-lunged Philadelphian. Shortly after leaving the White House, he emanated from his office a press release beginning as follows:

"A group of members of Congress, headed by Representative Clare G. Fenerty, called at the White House . . . etc."

Naval Maneuvers

Ill-feeling between the foreign naval attaches in Washington and the Navy Department continues to increase. Chief cause is the Navy's refusal to give the naval attaches what they consider "courtesy" information regarding the American fleet.

After the recent maneuvers in the Pacific, the foreign attaches got together and through their dean, Russian Vice Admiral Paul Yurevitch Oras, formally asked for information regarding the results of the maneuvers.

After receiving the request, Captain William D. Puleston, Chief of Naval Intelligence, telephoned that the information would be forthcoming in two or three days. The naval attaches, expecting that the Navy Department was taking this time to prepare an elaborate report, waited patiently.

At last, however, each attaché received one mimeographed sheet containing about 200 words. It opened with the highly informative statement that the purpose of the Pacific maneuvers was to train personnel. The information which followed was equally unimportant and did not even equal what every attaché could read in the newspapers.

So the naval attaché corps was furious.

About a week later, they gave a farewell luncheon to Captain A. R. Dewar, British naval attaché, and descendant of the famous makers of Scotch whiskey. He was returning to England.

Captain Puleston, always invited to affairs of this kind, was not asked. But the day of the luncheon he telephoned one of the luncheon hosts.

"Someone said something about the Dewar luncheon some time ago," he said, "but subsequently I did not get an invitation. I had another luncheon invitation today, and did not know quite what to do about it."

"Oh, by all means accept the invitation," was the reply.

Two of the rebel followers of President Lazaro Cardenas were killed at Villa Juarez, in the state of Tamaulipas, where the "campesinos" overthrew municipal governments in thirty towns to oust supporters of ex-President Plutarco Elias Calles.

All night long three thousand peasants besieged a defiant Governor Rafael Villareal in the Tamaulipas state legislative palace at the capital, Victoria, demanding his resignation. Seven thousand more waited outside the town, ready to march on the capitol at a command from their leaders.

Mounting machine guns atop the palace, Gov. Villareal truculently refused to surrender.

TERRE HAUTE STILL TENSE

Indiana Guardsmen Remain in Strike-ridden City Though Picketing Ends.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 24—A tense situation still existed in this strike town today in spite of the fact that normal business activity was re-established. Sixteen hundred national guardsmen still were in nominal charge of the city and will remain on duty at least until tomorrow, it was announced.

The strike was called off with dramatic suddenness last night, following a meeting of the Vigo county central labor council, representing 48 unions.

Thomas N. Taylor, American Federation of Labor organizer, in announcing termination of the general strike declared labor leaders believed "the department of labor is now able to handle the situation."

He said the strike had been showing the solidarity of labor in "one hundred percent effective, Terre Haute," and denounced the declaration of martial law and the concentration of guardsmen.

Rioting, which for a time threatened to become serious, broke out at the stamping plant last night shortly before announcement of the termination of the strike.

A mob of 1000 strikers and sympathizers stormed the plant, guardsmen, throwing tear gas bombs and swinging rifle butts freely, repulsed the four advances of the rioters and finally broke up the mob by arresting 100 of the more boisterous rioters.

"The state administration is most anxious to co-operate with the various federal agencies, particularly on the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy project.

"I solicit your good offices in order that a definite works program may be formulated and put into action in Ohio."

Crowell, before leaving for Louisville today for a WPA conference, said he would go to Columbus early next week to meet with Davey and other state officials on the Scioto-Sandusky program.

The conservancy project, if approved at Washington and work started, will be the largest enterprise in the state.

GROSS INCOME TAX EXPECTED

Dargusch Says Deletion of Levy on Foods, Clothing, Would Force Action.

COLUMBUS, July 24—If growing opposition to re-enactment of the sales tax law is successful in deleting from the present levy taxes on food, clothing and other necessities, then a gross income tax for Ohioans next year is assured.

This was the opinion today of Carlton S. Dargusch, vice-chairman of the State Taxation commission, following his appearance before the Senate Finance committee, which is working on a tax program for next year.

"If the sales tax law is curbed in its scope, it will mean a loss of revenue of about $30,000,000 per year," Mr. Dargusch said. "The only alternative then is the gross income tax. A tax of one per cent on all incomes above $1000 would net the state $30,000,000."

Although observers predict a stiff battle in the legislature over the sales tax, it is believed that the law will be re-enacted. Few predict, however, that it will be passed again in its present form, which is expected to yield $54,000,000 in net revenue this year.

Opposition to certain features of the law, particularly the levies on food, is so apparent, that the joint legislative committee, may prepare a Gross Income tax bill to present to the legislature with its tax program.

OHIO FUEL WILLING TO TALK RATES WITH CITY, JAY SAYS

Company Awaiting Invitation; Phipps Writes Another Letter To Mayor.

The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. will be willing to talk a new rate with Circleville at any time the council issues the utility an invitation, Harold M. Jay of Chillicothe, gas company executive, declared today in a visit to this city.

But it may be quite a while before such an invitation is forthcoming since a number of councilmen have intimated they are willing to wait a while longer to learn what the Universal Pipeline Co. is going to do. So far there have been a number of letters sent to city officials and other individuals by W. H. Phipps of the company pledging action, but nothing definite has been done.

Nearly Year Gone

It is almost a year since city council approved a contract with the pipeline company calling for a cheap gas at the city limits.

The latest letter received from Phipps by Mayor W. B. Cady asks that city officials confer with Mr. Dickey, Portsmouth, chief of the department of laws, to determine whether the four cities which have given contracts to the pipeline company want to enter a blanket performance of contract bond or negotiate such a step as individuals. Chillicothe, Portsmouth and Jackson are other cities which the pipeline company has contracted to serve.

Chillicothe council, Monday evening, read a new gas ordinance for the first time then tabled it with the utilities committee. This committee, too, is awaiting action by the pipeline company.

Aids Larger Users

The ordinance read in the Rossco city does not benefit the small gas user so much as the larger since no saving is shown until after 5,000 cubic feet have been used. The bill after that shows a saving of from five cents on 6,000 feet to $9.25 on 100,000 cubic feet.

Adkins Says Government May Even Provide Part of Materials; Five Named.

That Uncle Sam himself is interested in Circleville's park project was intimated today by Joe W. Adkins, Jr., power behind the drive for the park.

"Under the WPA," Adkins reported, "the government not only furnishes labor but also puts up some of the necessary money for materials."

Adkins declared that relief officials are anxious to get the park project under way since it will absorb a number of men who will be let out by the FERA when the work-relief set-up changes August 1. "It is hoped the park project will be started by August 1," the committee chairman said.

A committee of five has been appointed to sketch the lay-out for the 11.5 acres of land to be purchased from Mrs. George Haswell. Locations for various activities will be selected in the site by L. T. Shaner, Harry Griner, W. M. Reid, Mrs. J. P. Moffitt and Mrs. Orion King.

An effort is being made to have all pledges collected and in the hands of the treasurer not later than August 1. The land will be bought for $3,500 and the balance of money on hand will be used for materials to put the big field in the east end into condition.

Four Officers Leave Wednesday Morning With "Hoodlums"

RISHKO "BAD TYPE"

Detweiler Tells Officers Boy is Dangerous

Four young Allentown, Pa., hoodlums, whose "crime careers" were brought to a sudden end a week ago Sunday with their capture northeast of the city by a posse of officers and farmers, today were enroute to their home state to face the bar of justice.

Nick Rishko, 17, and Steve Surina, 18, confessed killers of Joseph Rathburn, night watchman of an Allentown junkyard, left the city at 7 a. m. today in the hands of four police officers from Allentown.

The chief of detectives of Allentown, William Detweiler, told Sheriff Charles Radcliff before their departure that "Allentown and surrounding communities were deeply grateful to the local officers for capturing the quartet."

Rishko Dangerous

Rishko, Detweiler said, is a dangerous character of the worst type. Police have been on his trail for more than a year.

Detweiler questioned Rishko and Surina Tuesday night in the presence of Sheriff Radcliff, Prosecuting Attorney Ray W. Davis and sheriff's deputies.

Rishko, a baby-faced youth, talked freely to the officer who has been trying to "get" him for more than a year. Questioning revealed that he is a product of the foreign, uneducated section of Allentown where unemployment and poverty necessarily breed crime. His career began at the age of nine when he was sent to a reformatory, a kind of industrial school.

Career Long One

He ran away from this institution, was returned, escaped again, was next sent to a reform school, and finally to the state hospital. He has committed robberies by the score, stolen at least six automobiles in Allentown and has admitted firing one of the shots that killed the night watchman.

He told Chief Detweiler that he didn't learn the tricks of crime in his home community but in the reform school where he was imprisoned for a year.

Rishko admitted to Detweiler that he wrote a letter to the latter sometime ago in which he said: "I'll never cry on your shoulder . . . if and when you get me some day."

And last night Rishko didn't cry on any one's shoulder. Got.

BURDEN OF RELIEF ON MUNICIPALITIES

URBANA, July 24.—Cham-paign-co's relief burden was turned back to township and municipal officials today by Harold Pence, county relief administrator here.

Announcing that county relief funds for July are exhausted, Pence notified officials of the subdivisions. Approximately 2,000 relief clients must obtain aid from township trustees and city officials for the remainder of July, he said.

No more money will be available until the August allocation is received from state relief headquarters. Pence said he is taking this action on his own initiative, however, no instructions having been received from C. C. Stillman, federal administrator at Columbus.

The county's July budget, Pence explained, was cut $4,000 to $14,500.

ten out of bed at 11:15 p. m. for the questioning, he was calm, and seemed sure of himself as he answered Detweiler's questions. He re-enacted the shooting of the Allentown watchman on Nov. 9, 1934. "Four of us were there," he said. "Steve (Surina) was standing next to me. We told the old man to put up his hands. He drew a gun. We fired. There were three shots altogether."

Expects Long Term

Rishko said he was anxious to get back to Allentown. "What do you think the court will do with you this time?" he was asked by Detweiler. "Oh, 20 years I suppose," the young hoodlum answered in an unconcerned tone.

Surina assumed an "I don't care" attitude throughout his questioning. He had a snarl on his face and was not as willing to talk as his "boss" and "pal" whom he calls "Nicky."

The stories of Surina and Rishko in regard to the shooting did not agree. Surina said there were only two shots fired. Rishko had said there were three. Rishko had also told the authorities that he was the only member of the captured quartet who could drive a car, but Surina claimed he, too, was a driver.

Started at 10

Surina's crime career began when he was 10 years old. His mother is dead and he did not know the whereabouts of his father, he said. He has been with Rishko almost daily since the shooting last November, he said.

Chief Detweiler does not believe that Surina is implicated in the shooting of the watchman. Before his death, the night watchman told authorities that there were only three youths and he identified one of these as Rishko. Detweiler believes Surina wants to get out of the state of Ohio in order to escape the charge of shooting Detective George Ruder. "He'll probably get off easier in

Five thousand "campesinos" participated in the insurrection at Tampico. Besides Victoria, the peasants met with resistance at Matamoros, where Mayor Enrique Munigua, defying demands of two thousand agrarians that his government retire, threw a police cord around the city plaza.

PRESIDENT URGES TAX BILL ACTION

WASHINGTON, July 24.—President Roosevelt today moved to speed action on the new tax bill which is making slow progress in the house ways and means committee.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, apparently acting at the request of the White House, offered to appear before ways and means committee Democrats in closed session to discuss the program.

The Democrats, however, refused the offer temporarily and decided to go ahead writing their own inheritance, gift, individual and corporation tax measure.

AAA AMENDMENTS FACING CONTEST

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Dramatically modified by the senate, the AAA amendments threaten to provoke stormy debate in conference with the house.

The senate stripped the house bill of many of its provisions for federal control and licensing of food producers and handlers. Senate progressives forced into the bill a provision permitting suits against the government to recover processing taxes, both past and future.

Another senate amendments would give President Roosevelt discretionary power to fix quotas on competing imports and another would appropriate $40,000,000 to enable the secretary of agriculture to carry out his program for purchase and eradication of diseased cattle. This would raise the total appropriation for this work to $90,000,000.

A damage suit for $500 is now being conducted before Mr. Adkins.

MISS RUGGLES HELPS LIBRARY

The present summer brought to the Circleville Public Library an interesting and valued gift.

Miss Elizabeth J. Ruggles, whose regard for her home town has been shown in many ways, added almost two hundred volumes to the collection which she had previously given to the local library.

The books received this summer were, largely, those reserved by Miss Ruggles at the time of the closing of the family home in Circleville, when many other volumes were presented to the library. About two years ago Miss Ruggles sent from California later additions to her personal collection.

The total number of books, which now comprise Miss Ruggles' gift, is about four hundred, each volume of which has been marked by a handsome book plate provided by the donor. In making her last contribution provision was also made for repairs and re-binding for those volumes that had become damaged while in storage.

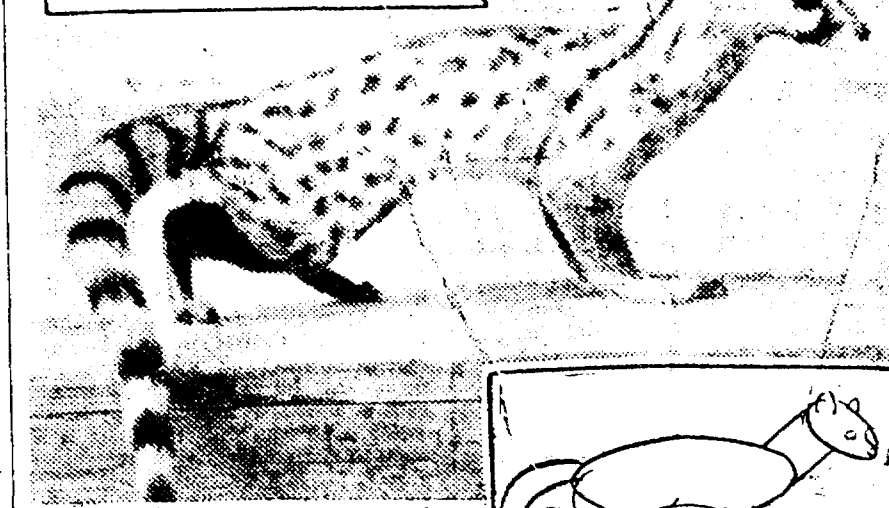

The tastes of a cultured home are shown by the collection in which the best of fiction, poetry, and general literature predominate. In the gift of this summer are complete sets of the novels of Scott and Dickens, the later an English edition with attractive illustrations.

There are, also, many reference books, histories, the works of standard poetry, and a very pleasing selection of light and amusing stories, which should prove entertaining re-reading, and diversion for those who have missed such writers as Ruth McEnery Stuart, Paul Leicester Ford, Emory Stuart, Paul Leicester Amelia Barr, F. Marion Crawford, Jeffery Farnol, Myra Kelly, Frances Little, Frank R. Stockton, S. Weir Mitchell, and Laura E. Richards.

NATURE PRESENTS—Genet (Common)

WHERE FOUND
France, Spain, parts of Asia and Africa.

PHYSICAL FEATURES

Twenty-three inches long, eight inches high; long, slim body; pads of hind feet naked; short fur. Color—reddish yellow, thickly strewn with spots; tail black ringed with narrow white.

SPAN OF LIFE

Two years.

FOOD

Birds, eggs, fruit and small animals.

OFFSPRING

Three or four.

Genets are longer and more slender than the true civet. Not afraid to live near houses, they prefer the bushy country to the forest, however. Easily tamed, they are often used as house pets for the destruction of rats and mice in southern Europe and in Egypt. But the genet has a savage instinct which is not sated by mere rats and mice; young chickens and fowls are often their victims. The civet has a curious gland from which a musk-like scent is extracted.

PARE BUDGETS, FARM AGENTS URGE IN STATE

Rural People Advised to Study Budgets, Urge Officials to Economize.

Rural people of Ohio are urged by officials of the Ohio Farm Bureau to inspect their local budgets and insist that local taxing officials practice every economy possible. This appeal is made in anticipation of serious reductions expected in the revenue available for local tax districts in 1936.

In the minds of many people is a collection of items representing what officials in a taxing district expect to spend in the fiscal year. A budget should give a complete, and honest picture of the financial condition of the taxing district; it must show the extent of its indebtedness and the means to be employed to meet sinking funds and interest; it means an analysis of all public activities to determine their usefulness and necessity; it means the elimination of all that should be dropped. While we are appropriating and spending money, we must consider means and resources, said the farm bureau officials. The fundamental questions we must answer are: First, what are the most necessary functions required for the welfare of the people? Second, what is the ability of the people themselves to finance these functions?

For five years local governments have suffered rapidly declining revenues and have had to borrow on a large scale to meet current obligations. For 1935 about $45,000,000 in poor relief bonds have been authorized, $55,000,000 in bonds have been refunded, and more than $20,000,000 in deficiency bonds and scrip have been issued. The Ohio legislature has given permission for the further issuance of deficiency bonds through 1939.

The time has come for local taxing districts to return to a "pay-as-you-go" basis as far as operating expenses are concerned. This issue must be faced and now is the time to face it with foresight, said the farm bureau authorities.

TOBACCO GROWERS TC VOTE PROGRAMS

Tobacco growers in Ohio, both producers of burley and cigar leaf, will vote, sometime late in July, whether they favor establishing a production control program for tobacco. Present progress reports with the 1935 crop year.

The referendum was called by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, which wishes to be guided by growers' opinions. Only tobacco communities will be included with the contest, of the referendum by county agricultural agents according to J. A. Shipper, state agent in charge of tobacco programs.

Shipper says all growers are urged to vote. Share tenants, share croppers, renters and land owners who are actually engaged in production of tobacco are eligible to vote.

In the most recent referendum at tobacco growers, of producers of this crop tobacco in southern states, more than 85 per cent of the voters favored continuing a production control program. In that referendum 83 per cent of the eligible farmers cast ballots.

No comparison on future crop should be used in making seedlings of tobacco, of the 1935 crop, or of the previous year's crop, in July or August. Tests at experimental stations have shown conclusively that tobacco seedlings made with care, or other means, will be better than those made by the young seedlings.

Orchard Day at Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster is scheduled for Friday, Aug. 16.

OHIO RURAL ELECTRIFICATION SOON POSSIBLE, SAYS LINCOLN

The rural electrification program that is being pushed throughout the state is rapidly nearing a point where preliminary procedures can be dispensed with, and actual, tangible work on the project begin in the various counties, according to a statement made by Murray D. Lincoln, executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, at the Columbus offices today.

M. Lincoln, who has been instrumental in securing the opportunity to obtain the advantages of electrical energy for the residents of the 173,000 un-electrified rural farm homes in Ohio, stated that organizational work has been nearly completed in many counties, and that actual construction of the lines would begin in the very near future.

"With thorough-going cooperation, the opportunity for electrical development in the rural field is practically unlimited," said Lincoln. "The program which the farm bureau is facilitating should make possible the most remarkable sales increases in rural power in the history of the electrical industry."

"Planned rural electrical development, made possible by cooperation among farm people of Ohio, will embrace not merely the erection of poles and wires, but the wiring of farm homes and the installation of electrical appliances. The introduction of modern bathrooms, kitchen sinks, and other plumbing equipment will be made possible for the first time on many farms by electrical operated water systems.

"It is our hope," said Lincoln, "that the electrification of thousands of rural farms and homes will become a lasting evidence of the benefits of cooperative endeavor in the annals of Ohio history."

The 2,000 club members and 100 of St. Louis county, Minn., to have the finest club house in the country when the building under construction is presented to them in a huge celebration set for August 22 on Lake Esquimaux near Iwawik. It was awarded the county in a national contest sponsored by Sears, Roebuck & Co. for ranking highest in the efficiency of its 4-H program in contributing to the social and economic life of the region.

STATE TO GET TWO MILLIONS IN AAA PLANS

Benefits Under Wheat Set-up To Be Increased; Set at 33 Cents a Bushel.

An increase in the rate of benefit payments to wheat growers who signed adjustment contracts with the AA Ais announced. The new rate, which applies to the 1935 crop, will be at least 33 cents a bushel on allotments less costs of local administration, which, in Ohio, have averaged about two cents a bushel.

The former rate of payment was 29 cents a bushel less local administrative costs.

This increase of 4 cents a bushel for the 1935 allotments represents an additional income to co-operating wheat growers of approximately $14,000,000, according to AAA officials. Total adjustment payments on the 1935 crop will reach the sum of $115,000,000, it is estimated. Ohio growers will receive approximately $1,999,000.

No change has been made in the processing tax rate. Funds for making the larger payments are those which accrued from the processing tax on wheat produced by farmers who did not take part in the adjustment program.

The administration says there is no connection between the new rate of payment and the wheat contract now being prepared for 1935 and succeeding years. The 1935 crop is the last one covered by the original wheat contract signed two years ago.

OHIO BEEKEEPERS ANNOUNCE MEET

Plans for the annual summer meeting of the Ohio Beekeepers' Association are announced by W. E. Dunham, secretary of the association. The meeting is scheduled for July 26 and 27 at the Beckell Hotel, Dayton.

The program, of tours, motion pictures, discussions, and lectures is designed to interest both the commercial and amateur beekeeper, Dunham says. The meeting is public.

Speakers who have accepted places on the program include Dunham, W. C. Joest of Millersport, Charles A. Brown, state inspector, M. J. Dowell, editor of a beekeeping journal, R. J. Porter of Delphos, Mrs. Leo Zimmerman of Arlington, G. W. Miller, Ohio State university economist, and O. L. Cunningham, county agent of Montgomery co.

Several good yields have been reported but none will be announced until after the deadline, so all of you who have pretty good crops should fill out the blank, have your threshers sign it and see that it gets to The Herald office not later than next Wednesday.

That's all there is to it. Some farmer is going to receive $5 for only reporting his crop yield. It might as well be you as anyone else.

PRESIDENT O'NEAL IN CHIO AUGUST 10

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will speak at Wooster, on Saturday, August 10, at the annual joint picnic of the Wayne County Farm Bureau and 4-H clubs, according to James R. Moore, publicity director of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation at Columbus.

This will be the first appearance of President O'Neal at Wooster. He will speak in the grove of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at 2:00 p. m. His subject is "The Future of the American Farmer."

O'Neal is well versed on national and state policies of agriculture, and his viewpoints carry much weight in the agrarian world. Ohio Farm Bureau members and their neighbors are urged to join the Wayne county group in hearing their national cooperative leader discuss problems that are crucial to every farmer, stated Moore.

RECORDS REVEAL UPTURN IN 1934

Comparisons of 1934 cash income for the year 1933 and 1934, as reported by Ohio farmers in pay-by-day records, indicate that earnings in the latter year were substantially better than in 1933. Almost a thousand records for each of the two years were included in the analyses, now completed by the department of rural economics at the Ohio State university. The records revealed net farm income to be $262 greater in the second year.

Average net cash income of 900 farmers in 1931 was $1,124. The average of their labor incomes was $1,150. Labor income is defined as the farm income less an interest charge of 4 per cent. Income from interest on their investments averaged $441.

Home Helps

Kitchenette Helpful

For those homes which already have a recreation room in the basement or attic, or for those which are about to have one, the home owner is reminded that a kitchenette, tiny though it might be, in conjunction with the play room, will prove invaluable.

Whether the younger members of the family decide to make fudge after a strenuous set of ping pong or father's friends desire cheese and crackers with a cold drink after a game of cards, the kitchenette will be a wise forethought. If mother does her own housework she will appreciate not having other members of the family descend upon her kitchen and if there are servants in the house it will indeed be a blessing to prepare a snack without invading Hannah's sanctum and incurring her displeasure. Paper plates and cups would add to the picnic atmosphere.

Food Storage

With the fruit and vegetable canning season rapidly coming upon us, one's thoughts turn to storage space. A kitchen or hall closet which has been used for odds and ends may easily be prepared with shelves to accommodate cans, jars, and bottles. If an existing closet may not be converted to this use, one may be built in a corner of the kitchen with little trouble or expense.

Flower Shelves

Shelves for flowers may be built across windows and serve as practical purpose as well as be attractive. Plants or bits of colored glass may be placed on the shelves, which may be made of wood, metal, or glass. These will not only be decorative but will add to the privacy of the room. Frequently these shelves are built only at the sides of the window, leaving the center of the glass uncovered and the view unhampered.

What is 4-H Club Work?

4-H Club work is that part of the Agricultural Extension Service which deals with rural youth. Young people between the ages of 10 and 20 in a community organize themselves into a group with their own officers and own local program with the guidance of an adult man or woman advisor or advisor voluntarily. Each member has an individual project centered around a problem of the home or the farm. They raise livestock, crops, gardens, flowers, make clothing, prepare foods, etc. They serve as officers and on committees of their own club. They have camp, plays, games, songs, exhibits, fairs, hikes, and social meetings. They work and play together. They learn to cooperate by cooperating. ### The Club Emblem

The conventional four-leaf clover, as it is each leaf, is the emblem of the 4-H organization. It is a symbol of the all-around or four-sided development of rural youth. The 4-Hs stand for Head, Heart, Hands, Health, or for the four-sided individual and the four-sided rural boys and girls.

The 4-H Colors

The 4-H Club colors are green and white.

The 4-H Motto

LYNCH CALLS MANAGERS OF 'REC' SQUADS

David Steinhauser Wants To Enter Team Under Circleville Oil Franchise.

Frank A. Lynch, president of the recreation ball league, announced today that a meeting of all managers will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in The Herald office to take action on the withdrawal of one Circleville Oil team and the entry of another squad of players backed by the same company.

Announcement of the withdrawal of the Oils was made Tuesday after Manager Denny Conright was unable to get a steady team of players.

David Steinhauser disclosed today that he is ready to put a squad of high school athletes on the field under the Circleville Oil name.

All managers are urged to attend the meeting since several other topics of interest will be discussed such as player transfers, etc.

There will be no game played this evening.

The Cities Service Oils won the first half of the league race and will have the same squad in action the second half. The Pickaway Dairy has increased its strength by the addition of Dick Robinson, ex-Circleville Oil catcher. Several other teams have helped themselves to players released from other teams.

As soon as action is taken this evening the second half schedule will be resumed.

"Home Canning for Better Family Meals" is the title of a bulletin available, free, at the offices of county extension agents.

"Flivver Kid" Champ

Ray Billows, 17, drove from Poughkeepsie to Mamaroneck, N. Y., in seven-dollar "flivver" to play in New York State amateur golf tournament. He reached finals by eliminating T. Sufferin Tailor, millionaire, and then beat Jack Greavy of Albany for title.

Coach Schmidt Entrain For Home—and Vacation

COLUMBUS, July 24—Football Coach Francis A. Schmidt bade farewell today to members of the Ohio State University athletic department and headed for the hills of Arkansas, where he first gained grid prominence, for what he terms a vacation.

The lonely Texan's idea of a vacation is taking part in three summer football clinics with only a few days rest before returning here to whip the 1935 edition of the Ohio State into shape for the fall.

Schmidt will stay at Arkansas University for a couple of days before heading home to Ft. Worth, Texas to visit "the home folks" as he terms it.

A few days visit with his family and then he'll head for Lubbock, Texas where he'll teach the fundamentals.

NEUSEL SOUGHT FOR BAER OR LOUIS TILT

NEW YORK, July 24—Negotiations to match Walter Neusel with either Max Baer or Joe Louis, in the event Max Schmeling does not agree to come to America, have been opened, it was learned today.

Paul Daniski, Neusel's manager, has been in communication with Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, with a view to matching Neusel and Baer in September.

At the same time, Daniski also said the Twentieth Century sporting club, sponsors of the milk fund bouts, has approached him to get Neusel for Louis, the fight to be held in September.

Daniski expressed willingness to take either match, and called Neusel to come to America August 1.

Meanwhile, Schmeling's plans remained shrouded in a cloud of doubt, with Joe Jacobs, his manager, leaving New York with his report of his dealings with the German ex-heavyweight champion of the world.

CONEY ISLAND RACES AUG. 27

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

CROWDS AT GAMES

These major league races are pouring the mazzuma into the pockets of the magnates. In New York yesterday more than 60,000 saw the Tiges and Yankees split a double bill and more than 30,000 were on hand in St. Louis as Cards and Giants also divided.

Capacity crowds are expected at both games played this afternoon.

BIRDS IN SETBACK

The Red Birds lost a tough one last night with the Louisville Colonels, copping a 14-inning contest. It was Mike Ryba night and a large crowd was on hand to honor the versatile athlete. Incidentally Ryba's nickname is "Fish." Another night game is scheduled Thursday with the Colonels as opponents.

SOME GOLF NOTES

A caddie sweepstakes tourney resulted in Maynard Sowers winning first prize, Raymond Francis second, Dick Mills third, and Harold Tuler fourth.

John Jenkins, high school athlete, banged out a 36-38 to be the medalist in the club championship qualifying round.

Felix Caldwell, brushing up for his qualifier, played 12 holes Monday in only four over par.

A Scotch 2-ball foursome will be held Sunday, August 4.

The new pro, Emil Hroben, is rapidly showing his value to the club members and officials. He's due to become mighty popular.

Frank Marion knocked off the Twilight tourney Tuesday in which 20 enthusiastic golfers participated. He scored a 40. His foursome of F. E. Barnhill, N. E. Reichelderfer and L. M. Mader had the best round of 39 in a best ball competition with 444544635.

Miss Charlotte Bell, director of physical education in the Portsmouth schools and summering at her home in Walnut-twp, carded a neat 47 Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Ned Groom has been scoring around that figure, a 51 reported the other day being her highest of the season.

INDIANS CREEP TOWARD MILLERS

COLUMBUS, July 24—Indianapolis remained right on the heels of the league-leading Minneapolis Millers in the American Association race and today was only a game and a half behind the pace setters, the Indians defeating Toledo, 7 to 1, while the Millers lost to Milwaukee, 10 to 3.

The third-place Columbus Red Birds lost ground in the race when they met defeat, 9 to 8, in 14 innings at the hands of the Louisville Colonels. The loss placed the Birds four games from the top.

The game was a pitching duel between Jack Tising of Louisville and Bob Klinger of Columbus after the eighth inning in which Tising allowed four hits in seven and two-thirds innings while Klinger allowed four hits in seven and two-thirds.

A homecoming crowd of 8,000 fans watched the Kansas City Blues triumph over St. Paul, 6 to 4 in the series' opener. The Blues got off to an early lead and were never headed.

Both Submit Statement Disclosing Plans For Their Administrations

Two candidates for the Democratic nomination for mayor had made known their intentions. They are Mayor A. H. Cady and Raymond H. Smith, former police man.

D. A. Yates, the third contestant in the race, announced his platform several weeks ago.

The statement of Mayor Cady follows:

Cady's Platform

"As I have been asked to present my platform to the voters of this city, I wish to state that my record for the past 15 months will be my platform. I do not want to mislead the public by making a list of campaign promises which I have made promises that do not know the conditions as they exist here in the city. I am confident that I am in a position to know just what the conditions are at the present time.

ASPIRANT FOR MAYOR SCORES POLICE OFFICE

Lancaster Man Says Officers Should Not Have Helped Round-up Hoodlums

LANCASTER, July 23.—J. H. Kerns, councilman at large, who aspires to be mayor of Lancaster, took the city police to task at Monday night's council meeting because they went to the aid of officers from surrounding communities and cities in the successful capture of a gang of criminals nabbed recently in Lancaster.

The round-up, effected through state and local police, had been set up, but behind bars four desperadoes wanted for powder, hold-ups and automobile thefts.

Although their presence in this city (they were on their way here at the time of their capture) constituted a dangerous hazard to Lancaster, Councilman Kerns objected to any local police leaving the city to take part in the round-up.

However, at Circleville, where the prisoners were lodged, it was said that the gang would have escaped had it not been for the aid of officers from surrounding points.

When appraised of Kern's attack today, Sessler merely said, "They were coming this way. We had to help head them off. Had they reached here they would surely have stolen an automobile, possibly started a holdup and might even have committed murder doing it."

What if We'd Asked

"Suppose we had refused the call to aid. Could we then ask for similar aid if such an emergency arose here? No, we can't let anyone's political ambitions interfere with the state and local police system being built up to wipe out crime in this state."

Chief Sessler, Officers Highley and Hutler joined the posse which effected the roundup. Highley was with the group that caught Frank Stavinsky, one of the mobsters.

City Well Protected

Before leaving the police office, Chief Sessler summoned Officer Bauer, night policeman, to take charge of the radio. All other night officers were ready for duty at a moment's notice in case of need. Sessler's own automobile and Bauer's were left at the police station to take the place of the one police car that was used in capturing the criminals.

Kerns said that the officers and equipment were for the protection of Lancaster and he did not believe they should be removed from the city for as long as they remained away in the day of the capture.

Kerns said that the officers and equipment were for the protection of Lancaster and he did not believe they should be removed from the city for as long as they remained away in the day of the capture.

CITY OF FLAGS TO GREET VETERANS IN DAYTON CONCLAVE

What is expected to be the largest array of flags ever displayed at any American Legion state convention is planned for the department of Ohio 1935 convention which is being held in Dayton Aug. 25, 26, and 27.

After six months of contacting the large decorators of the country, many of whom have been the official decorators for the National convention, the contract was awarded to the Herman J. Neu Flag & Decorating Company of Kenton, Ohio, who are nationally known for their ability in assembling decorations for conventions of every nature.

The decorations for this meet will consist of 130 lines of flags, seven flags to a line, which will be distributed on the principal streets of Dayton.

25 Miles Out

There will be flags displayed on all the principal highways leading into Dayton for a radius of 25 miles.

One of the outstanding features of this convention will be the store front decorations by the merchants which will welcome the Legionnaires into their respective places of business.

Merchants along the highways will also be contacted to decorate with the Legion emblem and National colors.

Colored life-size cutouts, reproduced from the "Daugherty" stationed at the main entrance of Memorial Hall will be mounted on every lamp post in the downtown section which will turn the streets into an avenue of bayonets.

Flags Everywhere

The colorful decorations which will mark the opening of this convention will not be confined to just streets and store front decorations.

Memorial Hall, the Legion headquarters, Auxiliary headquarters, Elks Club on Summit st., hotels, depots and bus stations will all be decked with the National colors.

It is the aim of the decorations committee, with Everett C. Quintrell as chairman, to make these decorations the finest ever assembled at any previous convention. In other words, Dayton will be a 100 per cent decorated city.

The task of contacting all merchants in Dayton and vicinity for store front decorations will be started in a few days by the Herman J. Neu Flag and Decorating Company of Kenton, Ohio, who are the authorized official decorators for this convention. They are the only ones who have the exclusive right to use the American Legion emblem.

Forty-six millionaires—on the basis of 1933 returns—are affected by the President's recommendation that graduated rates be imposed on incomes of more than $1,000,000.

Under existing law the "ceiling" graduated rates is $1,000,000. Up to that figure, income taxes are assessed on a graduated basis. Beyond that sum the taxes pay only on the same basis as the individual with a $1,000,000 income.
